

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An axle housing assembly includes web members that define lubricant containment chambers within an interior space of a housing. Each lubricant containment chamber contains a fixed amount of lubricant. The containment chambers defined within the housing confine lubricant to critical areas to reduce the amount of lubricant required within the housing to properly lubricate internal components.

N:\Clients\Meritor\jp01627\Patent\Patent Application 60130-1627.Doc